DAN W. SIMMS

February 13, 1862—March 11, 1931

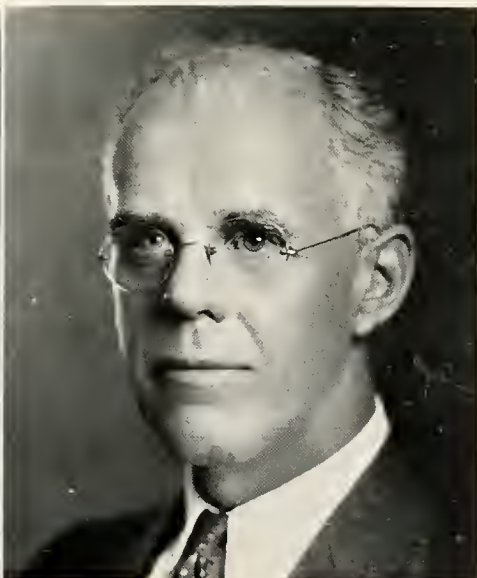

Mr. Dan W. Simms served Jefferson High School long and well. The sentiment of the pupils, the teachers, and the principal are fittingly expressed in the resolutions of the remaining members of the school board. With the deepest respect the resolution is recorded in this book.

"In the discharge of his duties to the schools of the city, he never tired, hesitated nor shirked. In his associations with his fellow members, the superintendent and teachers, he was always frank, affable, firm, fair and courteous.

"In the death of Mr. Simms the community has lost one of its best and most useful members, and the schools one of their most zealous and best equipped officers."

PRINCIPAL L. E. SINGER

Indiana University B.A.
Columbia University M.A.

During the time that Mr. Singer has been principal, the school has been keeping pace with the newest ideas in education. During the past five years, the expansion has included the enlargement of the building to double its former size, and an increase in enrollment from eight hundred to one thousand fifty pupils. There has been an increase in faculty from forty teachers to fifty teachers in order to care for the increased enrollment. At the same time there has been an enlargement of the number of courses offered and revision of those already offered to conform to the State Courses of Study. The program of activities has been enlarged so that a well rounded program is offered. An excellent spirit exists both between the students and teachers. The plans at the present time are looking forward to further expansions and improvements.

DEDICATION

Superintendent A. E. Highley

In this niche of our book we wish to honor one who has been serving both school and students; one whose wide-reaching duties influences the lives of many people. It is with our best wishes and gratitude that this eighteenth volume of the Nautilus is dedicated to the Superintendent of the Public Schools, A. E. Highley.

PREFACE

As a golden sun slowly settles behind the horizon of another school year, in the last few minutes of fading twilight we slowly begin to realize that we have made another year of history for Jefferson High. The seniors look back and realize that their careers as students of this institution exist no longer. We, the staff of the 1931 Nautilus, striving to compile a record of the activities and events that have taken place, earnestly hope that this book will throw a soft and tender glow upon the remembrances of the past year.

—The Editor.

"Come, my friends,
'Tis not too late to seek a newer world.
Push off, and sitting we'll in order smite
The sounding furrows; for my purpose holds
To sail beyond the sunset, and the baths
Of all the western stars, until I die.
It may be that the gulfs will wash us down;
It may be we shall touch the Happy Isles,
And see the great Achilles, whom we knew.
Though much is taken, much abides; and though
We are not now that strength which in old days
Moved earth and heaven; that which we are,
we are—
One equal temper of heroic hearts,
Made weak by time and fate, but strong in will
To strive, to seek, to find, and not to yield."

Ulysses—Alfred Tennyson.

Gone! Gone forever! Like a rushing wave another year has burst upon the shore.

Seven

"These walls will not forget, through later days,
How they had bloomed with lifted, tossing heads
Of swaying girls who thronged these ordered ways."

Youth is to all the glad season of life; but often only by what it hopes, not by what it attains, or what it escapes.

Oh, happy years! Once more, who would not be a boy?

"Come back with all the memories, the joys and e'en the pain,
And take me to the golden hills of boyhood once again."

The heart hath its own memory, like the mind; and in it all enshrined, the precious keepsakes unto which is wrought the giver's loving thought.

"My heart goes back to wander there,
And among the dreams of the days that were,
I find my lost youth again."

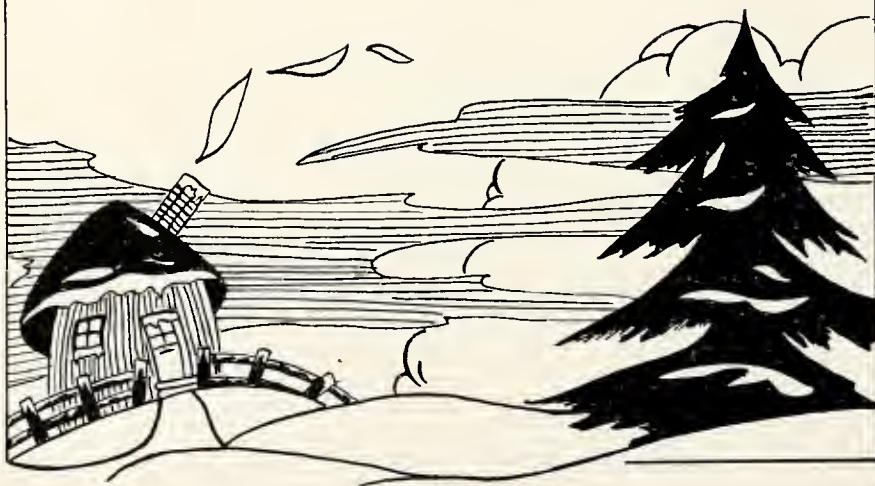

WINTER LIGHTS

The fir in our yard is loaded with snow,
With ice-edged white the branches hang low.
Its arms in benediction spreadingly fall.
Bringing a beautiful blessing to all.

The fir in our yard has a thousand planes
To catch the sun-glints as evening wanes.
It's all ablaze—diamond, opal, green-gold hue.

Oh, how I wish, wish you could see it, too.

—Miss Wilma Fletemeyer.

Mr. A. E. Highley, who has been superintendent of the public schools of Lafayette for the past eight years, is an experienced school executive and builder. Through his leadership it was made possible for Lafayette to have a splendid vocational and physical education building. This addition has proved its worth and will continue to grow in value during the succeeding years. Keeping pace with these developments, four grade school buildings have been erected, three of which are equipped with splendid gymnasiums. Due to state-wide recognition as a leader, Mr. Highley represents the Superintendents of the State of Indiana in the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. Such progress in educational tendencies has proved his leadership.

Jefferson High School has indeed been fortunate in having a faculty of such high calibre as has served this year. The faculty has been selected from a wide range of universities and includes some very versatile as well as scholarly instructors.

Special mention should be given to Earl Hinshaw, instructor in civics, who for the past two years has served as assistant principal. This fall Mr. Hinshaw was acting principal in Mr. Singer's place until Mr. Singer's health permitted him to return. All through the year Mr. Hinshaw has performed his duties in a very commendable manner and we wish to take this opportunity to congratulate him upon his success.

This year Miss Kimmel continued her duties as Dean of Girls while Mr. Marshall served as Dean of Boys. Both have done extraordinary work along these lines which should command the praises and support of the student body. The Deans are also sponsors of the senior class.

The household art courses have been carefully planned so that every girl who is enrolled will receive extensive practice in all the various phases of this study. The courses in home nursing, home management, vocational home economics, and the cafeteria are under the direction of Miss Ratcliffe. Miss Ratcliffe is also a sponsor of the senior class. Other foods and clothing classes are taught by Miss Ryan and Miss Slayback. The many pleasant luncheons and banquets served to the organizations and clubs have added much to the popularity of this department.

One of the aims of the history courses is to train for a higher type of citizenship. No group of people could have been more successfully selected to meet this idea than those who are now teaching the classes in the various fields of this department.

SONG OF SENIOR CLASS OF 1931

Farewell to thee dear old Jeff High,
We're leaving you with parting sigh,
Yes! Four years long we've spent with you,
And that they're o'er seems hardly true.

Four years ago we entered "prep,"
And down our backs the shivers crept
When us a senior would approach,
For well we knew he was our coach.

Now we're the ones that are superior,
While someone else feels quite inferior,
Some day they'll reach this stage of life,
If they put forth the toil and strife.

With us our teachers struggled through,
And we would often feel quite blue,
But now the end is drawing near,
And we are leaving with a tear.

Once more we say with parting sigh,
Farewell to thee dear old Jeff High,
We'll soon part from you at the door,
But in the end shall meet once more.

BERNICE WHITE.

To the Officers

The nineteen hundred thirty-one class, in its last year, has been very carefully piloted by four very efficient officers. Richard Moore, the president, has planned the course so that the last year would be the most memorable for his class. Vernon Gery, the vice-president, has done meritorious work by assisting the president in his duties. The other two, Clyde Byers, treasurer, and Meredith Campbell, contributed much to the success of their class.

1931 Class History

It was the first semester of the school year 1927-28 at Jefferson High School. Two scared little boys walked into the front hall.

First prep, "Gee, this place is bigger than I thought it was."

Second prep, "I'm afraid we'll get lost. I know I'll walk into a girls' locker room or something like that."

But as the year came to a close the records showed that the members of the class, which these boys represented, had found their way around successfully.

The girls were initiated into the Sunshine Society. Some of the boys went out for Freshman athletics and both boys and girls were in the school shows.

"Oh, boy, isn't it grand to be a Sophomore now, and we got along all right last year," boasts the new Sophomore.

"Yes, but the members of our class are going to do even bigger things this year."

And they did. Many of the students made the honor roll and some have been on that list ever since. Some of the boys and girls were chosen for members of the B. A. C. and G. A. C. and other outside activities.

"Well, here we are at the half way mark. I wonder what this third year will bring?"

"I'm sure I don't know, but I'll bet it will go down in history."

On the gridiron, Norman Simison, Elmer Swick, and Charles Martin began to show their ability, while in basketball, Charles LaPlante, Pat Coomey, Clark Morin, John McNary, and Reed Keller were outstanding.

Many of the Juniors were elected for offices in the different organizations, and some were on the Nautilus and Booster Staffs.

Reed Keller was chosen president of the class. The Junior-Senior picnic held at Camp Tecumseh was a success as a result of the work of the Juniors.

"Hurrah! We have reached the last lap. Now we can look down on all the other classes."

"Yes, but they will have to look up to us for all the good work we are going to do this year."

What is more the class has done good work this year. The class was organized with Richard Moore as president; Vernon Gery, vice-president; Meredith Campbell, secretary, and Clyde Byers, treasurer.

Green and white were chosen for class colors. The sweater committee, headed by George Clayton, selected green slip-over sweaters with white numerals.

President Moore appointed Katherine Thompson class prophet.

The rings and pins were the standard design except for the black mounting.

The Nautilus

Charles LaPlante, Pat Coomey, and Clarke Morin were again seen on the hardwood. The class was represented in football by Charles Martin, Elmer Swick, Charles LaPlante, Robert Orth, and Norman Simison.

"Intimate Strangers," by our own Hoosier writer, Booth Tarkington, was chosen for the class play. The cast included Meredith Campbell, Mary Jane O'Mara, Elizabeth Gray, David Curtner, Anna Mary Nicholas, Charles Harbaugh, Betty Timberlake, and Cecil Law.

Invitations chosen by James Emens and his committee promised to be something different. Donald Stallard, who was in charge of the Senior Convocation, planned an interesting program. Now all the members of this distinguished class are looking forward to the gala week.

The two boys who represented this class as preps, now as Seniors want to say their parting words.

First Senior, "This has surely been a happy four years, and I hope the rest of my life will be as happy."

Second Senior, "We will never forget dear old Jeff and all the valuable lessons we have learned while within her walls."

—Mary Jane O'Mara, '31.

Senior Class Prophecy

It was raining! Torrents of water fell from the sky and splashed into puddles as I sped along in my car in my mad rush to reach home. As a result of the storm the road was almost deserted—I say almost because in the distance I sighted a lonely and drenched figure forcing himself into the stinging sheets of rain. My heart was softened, so I applied the brakes and politely asked if he was going my way. The ride seemed only too welcome, for he climbed in and slammed the door without saying a word and without wasting a second of time. I did not get a good look at him until we had ridden about a mile; he was shaking the water from his well-worn coat like a dog. However, I managed to catch a glimpse of his bristle-bearded face out of the corner of my eye.

"Hugh Titus," I exclaimed, plunging into a small river that had developed in the middle of the road. "I haven't seen you for—let's see—twenty-five years. Tell me, what are you doing now?"

"Traveling."

"Yes, so I see."

"Well, it is a long story," he explained. "Five years ago, I was voted King of Hoboes, and, you know, one must travel to keep his title."

"Oh, yes, of course. Seen anything of the old class?"

"Sure. I have looked them all up. You would be surprised at some of their professions. For instance, the last time I heard, Jack Cox was running for the sponsor of the W. C. T. U., and Elisabeth Gray and Peg Crowe were in charge of a home for the feeble-minded. Last week while I was in Joliet, I went to a circus called "Jefferson Jungles," and there I found in the side show Alice Eisenbach as the bearded lady,

The Nautilus

Charles Martin as the contortionist, Herman Berger as the ventriloquist, and Maxine Morrison and Edna Reifers as the Siamese twins. By this time they have taken Clyde Byers in as the sword swallower.

There are quite a few in New York City. Daisy Cundiff and Charlene Gahagen have a fashionable frock shop. Doris Jane Byler is their mannikin, and Samuel Goodman is the salesman. Millicent Beck and Dorothy Dykhuizen are chorus girls. They made their big hit in William Van Arsdall's "Scando-Follies." Charles LaPlante recently opened up a toe-dancing class for football coaches. Paul Zimmerman and Vincent Vick are his star pupils. Vincent Miller, in his office on Fifth Avenue, censures books for children. His latest are "Dizzy Lizzy's Trip to the Sun," "Dizzy Lizzie in the Heart of India," and "Dizzy Lizzie in the Sea." In the same office is John McNary, who censures high school books, and this is why Doris Anderson, dean of deans of girls, is complaining for the lack of texts.

Joe Diamondstone and George Clayton have been digging ditches for Albert Highley, who is building a prison for loafers. I think he has his eye on Louis Fisher, who has been waiting for the editor of the Chicago Tribune to die, so he could take his place. Oh, yes, which reminds me that Richard Sample has been making after dinner speeches over WGN for the good of Prohibition. Owen Fix has also turned to the radio for a future. He is a jazz-singer, and Anna Mary Nicholas and Leslie Goddard assist him with their operatic talent. David McQueen and George Mast have given their all for the promotion of Chemistry, and are now headed for the insane asylum. They have tried to put laughing gas in the air. Charles and John Harbaugh have made good. They have organized the "Slimmy Cat" Detective Agency. They recently arrested David Curtner and Earl Hill for the cold-blooded murder of Joe Alberts, a peanut vender. Betty Timberlake and John Kelleher are in Washington. Betty is the filibuster in Congress and John is her chauffeur. Ray and Robert Boyer are in business together. They make false teeth and guarantee them to be ready to wear five minutes after the last tooth is pulled. What teeth!

Ruth Raub lives in Reno. She has been married five times and has decided that it would be much cheaper to live in the divorce capitol. Betty Bellinger lives with her as a corresponding secretary, to keep her husbands' names and alimonies straight. James Emens is the judge at the Reno courts and lately he has been stepping out with the grass-widow. Eddie Brown's marriage also went on the rocks. Marjorie Brenner has an eye for business. She is financing her sale of hairless poodle dogs with her late husband's insurance.

William Kaiser writes music. He wrote a song and dedicated it to his favorite movie team, Winifred Weaver and Charles Reddish. The song is "To drive a nail with a sponge, you've got to soak it hard."

Joe Cavanaugh has gone on the stage. His manager, John Bart, starred him through "Burning Whiskers," which was written for him by August Freedman. Leonard Ade is the slight-of-hand performer between the acts of the same play.

The Nautilus

Wayne Barnaby, Frederick Burkle and Edward Howell are engaged in the manufacture of hairless toothbrushes, and Walter Hurtt and Grover Rutherford have just perfected an electric toothpick.

Robert Orth is the class epitaph-writer. He recently did a masterpiece for Clarke Morin. Something like this:

"Here is a lad who received a fatal blow
When he was arrested for driving too slow."

George Yuill is a warden in Powder River Penitentiary. He told me the other day that he recognized many of the prisoners as his old classmates. Charles Kemmer, No. 98765, was in for peace disturbing; Cecil Law, No. 46386, for pickpocketing; William McQuisten, No. 1, for bigamy; Jim Reifers, No. 13, for intoxication.

And then, what is a class without its movie stars? Maxine Edwards has reached stardom with Margaret Rush as her press agent. Dorothy Haun started to crash the gates, too, but her red hair didn't register in technicolor, so now she answers Maxine's fan mail for her.

You see Laura Hughes' and Vivian Miller's pictures in magazines everywhere. They are being photographed for the advertisement of the Tough-Skin Hotdog Company. Vernon Gery's face is usually associated with the Sleep-tite Mattresses.

Naomi Ade is the designer of dresses, cars, and furnaces, and Edith Goris assists her with her artistic ability. So far, their only victim has been Abraham Slessor, the owner of a soup kitchen in South Bend, but they are intending to hook Fred Hofing and Albert Lehnert, joint owners of the Red Hot Furnace Company.

Oh, yes, another thing. The minute William Fletemeyer graduated he went out and climbed a tree, and has been there ever since. He has forgotten that tree-sitting may be out of date by now. Doris Thompson is an aviatrix—she set a record for inside loops a week ago. Five loops in five seconds. Mary McCormick, Bernice White, and Leonie Schwarm are nurses. They aim to make business for their favorite undertakers, Roger Kessen and Phil McCauly.

Grace Talbert is the only lady lawyer who has had the heart to send a weeping man, namely William Driscoll, to the chair. He was arrested for the assassination of Claude Campbell, a famous racketeer.

Ruth Helmond and Mary Louis Warnke are in a very peculiar profession. They train canaries for quartets. Katherine Galloway buys the birds, and gives them some of her patent medicine, "Coughsomore," so that they can be trained over again.

Esther Frieling and Frances Buxton have gone into the promotion class for "Canned Music." They have turned very bitter toward music and never want to hear it again outside of the theatre. Now John Vyverberg is just the other way. He is the leader of a jazz band in Paris.

James McQuire was offered the presidency of the United States but refused the office because he could never buy ties that pleased the public. Clarence Holst, Bernard King, Gordon Reagan, and Ernest Childers have been selling Austins. Each have agencies in five different towns that are making the midget business flourish. Donald Eberle has written a book on etiquette and Richard Owens has spent five years trying to figure it out. Ruth Anderson, Merle Carlson, Katherine Friend, and Wilma Moore are school teachers. Esther Bauer and Martha Griffin have been conducting tours to the top of the Woolworth Tower. As you walk up the step, they tell you what famous people have stumbled on each one. Virginia Castor and Doris Dittmar are training alligators to refuse to eat. Thelma Scanlon and Thelma Garriques are missionaries in Mars. Alberta Katzman and Laurel Nichols design polka dots for clown costumes. Fred and John Thornbough have taken over the property of the Sugar Bowl from Pop Jenks, and Lee Norquest and Jack Munger are proprietors of Coney Island. LeRoy Nichols made a trip to the Moon, and William Shigley managed to go with him as a mechanic. Willard Scott was a stowaway on the air ship.

Anna Margaret Ross, Mary Jane O'Mara, and Velda Peneton have taken the problems that swamped Annie Laurie onto their shoulders. They cry themselves to sleep every night. Clarence Leaman and Herman Koning are raising spinach in Spain. Roland Martin is a motorcycle cop. Mildred Galloway and Hellen Jackson, after working for twenty years, have perfected a runless stocking. It is made of pearl grey steel. Virginia Peters and Virginia Richards have a boarding house. Jean Connor, the cartoonist; George Anderson, the poet; George Bostwick, the rumrunner; Ethel Bass, the dressmaker; Curtis McKinzie, the astronomer; Donald Stallard, the philosopher; and William Shelby, the sweat-shop proprietor, all live in their respectable tenement.

Harry Slack is a janitor in an Old Ladies' Home, which is kept up by Elma Murphey. Alice Buit has come into her institution because she saw a mouse and her hair turned so white with fright that she aged fifty years in five minutes. Margaret Dilts and Edith Hays are evangelists and are putting Aimee Semple MacPherson out of business. Charles Lammers is a very prominent preacher. Dorothy Hudgens is a tutor in an educational institution in Florida. She has caused a lot of trouble among the elite. It was because of her that Randolph McKinnis' wife applied for a divorce. Mary Rose Teal tried to kill her because she tried to steal her finance.

Ethel Smith has come into money. Her great-great-grandfather died and left her fifty thousand dollars, so she took her maid, Phyllis Young, and left for Vista High-and-Dry in Spain. Meredith Campbell and Reed Keller went to Africa to shoot elephants, but they got scared when a cat scratched them and came right home. Shirley Primack, Claudene Richards, and Edith Jerls are models for our funny-paper artist, Milton Crooke. Adeline Drummond and Vivian Knarr worked in beauty shops. Clarence Cederquist and Clifford Jerls make toys for Santa Claus. Mary Pultz, while building a fire in a hotel owned by Gale Summers accidentally chucked a piece of dynamite into the flame, thinking it was a candle, and caused the death of Irene North, wall-paper stamper; William Trillingham, China-smuggler; Marie Escue, perfumer; Ruth Dunnewold, owner of an opium den; and Ione Peterson, head cook. Frances Key and Isabelle Melville discovered a new odor for incense, and now have a valet, Clarence Ullman, to watch their millions. Harriet Meiser and Ruth Skinner are co-editors of a "Heartbreak Magazine." Read this publication and it will be drenched with tears by the time you have reached the last page. Doris Yost has retired from a very strenuous business life. She has had a very hard time persuading her superior-in-law, Stuart Stetsma, that she does not deserve a higher salary. It was such difficult work that it gave her a nervous breakdown.

Jean Torrenga, Joyce Young, and Alta Yuill are married. They are neighbors and have very much in common as their husbands are all coal miners.

"Now," Hugh said, "there is one person I have left out—our president, Richard Moore. At present, he is in Washington, D. C. He was given a much desired position there because of his knowledge of the parliamentary procedure. He says he got his training when he practiced on the old class. Pretty good old gang, yes. Well, here we are at Lafayette, I guess I will get out here and look around awhile. So long."

When I left him, I realized what a good time we had had in our old Alma Mater, and I was determined to keep an eye on the members of the class of 1931.

—KATHERINE THOMPSON.

SONG OF THE OPEN ROAD

"Afoot and light-hearted I take to the open road,
Healthy, free, the world before me,
The long brown path before me leading wherever I choose.

Henceforth I ask not good-fortune, I myself am good-fortune,
Henceforth I whimper no more, postpone no more, need nothing
Done with indoor complaints, libraries, querulous criticisms,
Strong and content I travel the open road."

The Jefferson High School Band

The Jefferson Band, under the able direction of Mr. Skidmore, has an enrollment of sixty members. The band is now rated as one of the best in this section of the State, and was entered in the State contest which was held at Jefferson High School, May 1 and 2. This fine organization played for all the home athletic games, including the county, sectional, and regional basketball tournaments, and made road trips to Greencastle, Delphi, and Logansport.

At the beginning of the school year, new uniforms were purchased by the band, and two band festivals were presented in the gymnasium; the proceeds of which went for the payment of the uniforms. The band took part in several outstanding parades during the year as well as playing for different enterprises.

Mr. Skidmore brought the organization from one of little ranking to one that is looked on by other schools as a fine band. Probably a lot of the wins, made by the athletic teams, were due to "never die" spirit of the band.

The Sunshine Society has long been a helpful association. Every girl in school is a member. At Christmas many needy families are given food and clothing. Its programs are always an interesting diversion from the usual routine of school life.

The Sunshine Society promotes welfare in general throughout the school. It provides an opportunity for making friends and keeping them.

The candy booth is sponsored by this society and it is by this means that our organization obtains funds for carrying on.

TUXIS HI-Y CLUB

Hugh Titus—President.
Don Stallard—Vice-President.

The program of the Hi-Y Club has included a Father and Son Banquet at which Roscoe G. Stott was the speaker. The club also sponsored a convocation program featuring the same speaker. In November a hallowe'en party was held at the Berger residence. The outstanding accomplishment of the year was the sponsoring of a banquet in honor of the foot ball and basket ball teams. A gospel team composed of members of the club was organized to take charge of church services in the city as well as out of the city. The challenge held forth by the Hi-Y Club is to create, maintain and extend throughout the school and community high standards of Christian character.

JEFF BOOSTER 1931

A school paper is the printed calendar of school life. In looking over the files of previous years, one finds that the Booster stands high in High School Journalistic circles, and the staff of the 1931 paper tried to emulate and even exceed the prestige of its predecessors.

Several members of the staff journeyed to Franklin, Indiana, the early part of the fall semester to the Press Convention and gleaned much knowledge of newspaper work.

Mrs. Clark was the supervisor of the paper and much of the Booster success is due to her for her helpful and untiring effort. Mr. T. E. Conder, who has had many years experience in daily newspaper work, has charge of the printing department and gave more than his time to make the paper a success.

The purpose of the G. A. C. is to foster a spirit of cooperation and to provide an opportunity to render good service to the school through aid furnished by students during each school hour in the principal's office, in the Sunshine rest and first aid room, and in the library.

Students are chosen after three semesters' work, and must be mentioned by at least four teachers as outstanding girls showing initiative, loyalty, and high standards of character.

The French Club is one of long standing in Jefferson. Its purpose is to interest the students in speaking, understanding, and liking French. In its meetings French plays, songs, poems, travel stories, and descriptions of the remarkable and historical sights of France are read. Realities are brought nearer by glimpses of the ultimate goal reached by long hard studying and dull conjugations. The French Club merely opens the gate to the avenue down which all foreign language students long to travel.

During the past year the History Club has had many interesting programs to promote the students interest in the subject.

Ouiatenon day was observed Oct. 18, when the members of the club went on a historical tour of the county. Jefferson was well represented in the program given during the tour. Gerald Moore gave the history of Prophetstown. At Prophets Rock, Ruth Helmond gave the legend of the Prophet who directed the battle of Tippecanoe. Charles Harbaugh told the History of the First White Settlement at Ouiatenon.

One meeting was held at the museum. At another, moving pictures of Italy were shown.

DEBATE AND ORATORY

Herman Berger and Jean Torrenga were representatives in the Central Indiana Oratorical Contest, with Herman placing second. Charles Plank, Marion Rogers and Paul Davis were in the local contest for the State Discussion League.

The debate teams, both negative and affirmative, defeated Fowler, Ambia, Rensselaer and Oxford. These teams held dual debates with Hammond in the district contest for the right to invade the State, but were defeated in the last round.

The negative team was composed of Maxine Morrison, Margaret Stradling, Ebby Gray, James Emens, and Mr. Laney as coach. The affirmative team was composed of Minadel Veneman, Albert Highley, Ruth Helmond, and Mr. Rogers, coach.

The membership of the Forensic Club consists of students who are interested in debating, platform speaking and oratorical contests.

The purpose of this organization is two fold: First, to promote interest in public speaking; second, to give members practice in parliamentary rules. Meetings are held every month. The most interesting meeting during the past year was the Christmas party. Fifteen members were present and inexpensive gifts were exchanged. Each member gave a presentation and an acceptance speech.

All of the meetings were carried out according to parliamentary form.

The Jefferson Home Economics Club was organized October 1, 1929. This club is affiliated with the state and national organizations from which it receives valuable information and advice.

Ruth Kantz and Marjorie Marquis attended the state meeting which was held in Indianapolis during the Teachers' Association.

The club has a point system by which the members may earn the right to wear the national club pin.

The most interesting program of the year is the style show which is given in the spring and to which the mothers are invited.

At the February meeting Dean Mary L. Matthews of Purdue University gave the club a very worthwhile talk on "Opportunities for the Home Economics Trained Girl."

THE STUDIO CLUB

Miss Galloway—Sponsor
Grace Edith Talbert—President
Dorothy Hudgens—Secretary

The Studio Club is composed of members of the art department who are especially interested and capable of promoting an interest in art.

The visits to the Historical Museum and Art Gallery, the Hoosier Salon, poster contests, and general interest in the promotion of school affairs are some of the regular activities of the club. The masquerade party at Hallowe'en and the Christmas party are occasions which are looked forward to each year.

THE NAUTILUS 1931

Every year it is the purpose of the Nautilus staff to publish a better book. This staff has worked hard to achieve this aim and we hope that the 1931 book will prove to be worthy of the students of Jefferson High School. Keeping up the record of the Nautilus, the 1930 book was awarded second class honor rating in the National Scholastic Press Association.

ALVA E. BOTKIN

Mr. Alva Botkin is one of the greatest coaches, if not the greatest, that ever coached a Jeff team. His spirit was instilled into every combination and taught the players the spirit of teamwork.

His football team was the best since 1923 and with any kind of material Jeff should have another winner next year. The basketball team won the sectional but lost the Regional to Frankfort. However, as four men of this year's team are left, Jeff should go to the state next year.

THE ATHLETIC BOARD

The Board consisted of Joe Diamondstone, president; Charles LaPlante, vice-president; John Kamstra, secretary; Pat Coomey and Elmer Swick, members at large, and Miss Rothrock, Mr. Webb, Mr. McCarty, Mr. Botkin and Mr. Peebles, sponsors.

The Board puts a better spirit into the teams and the student body. They bought new uniforms for the players and sold tickets at a low price so that the whole school could attend the games.

ELMER SWICK. Co-Captain, Halfback—(Top).

Though playing a new position "Dago" came through to turn in his best season. Due to his fight and grit he earned a place on the Third All-State team.

DAVID McQUEEN. Quarterback—(Left).

This flashy signal barker was one of the fastest men to ever don the Red and Black. His long gains around the ends pulled Jeff out of many tight holes.

HAROLD WALLACE. Quarterback—(Left).

"Dopey" alternated with McQueen at quarter. His splendid passing and open field running gave the fans many thrills. He has another year yet to play.

CHARLES MARTIN. Co-Captain, Tackle—(Bottom).

"Chuck" was the largest man on the squad. His great defensive play earned him a berth on the Third All-State team.

Little but mighty is the only way of describing Herm's stellar play. Squirming through the line was his main object in life.

JOHN KAMSTRA. Fullback—(Right).

"Jawn" joined the team again after a year's absence and became a veritable power house. Although handicapped by his injured knee he still has the same punch. Much is expected of him next year.

CHARLES LAPLANTE. End—(Bottom).

"Chuck" always went behind the line to nail his man dead. Here's to more like him!

Behler, a new man, turned in a steady game at guard. He broke up his opponents' plays and was ready for anything coming his way.

WILLIAM VAN ARSDALL. Guard—(Bottom).

Full of fight and on his toes, "Bill" was in on every play. He was small but handled himself well and always gave the opposing team something to worry about.

The Bronchos—1931

JEFFERSON, 35; WEST SIDE, 0

The Red and Black Bronchos bucked their way to a lopsided win over the Scarlet and Gray tribe from across the creek. Jeff scored in every quarter, and though both teams fumbled at the start the game was a better battle than the score indicates.

JEFFERSON, 39; RENSSELAER, 0

Jeff's grid machine swung into action again to spill Rensselaer. The score at the half was 14-0 and at the end of the game it would have been much greater if a reserve team had not been sent in. This was the first win over Rensselaer in four years.

JEFFERSON, 20; CRAWFORDVILLE, 14

Playing straight football Coach Botkin's outfit pushed over two touchdowns in the first half and one in the third quarter to defeat the Crawfordsville aggregation. Both of the Athenian touchdowns were due to beautiful passes. The Athenian resorted to a passing attack when their backs failed to penetrate Jeff's stone wall.

JEFFERSON, 13; GREENCASTLE, 13

Jeff clearly outplayed the Bulldogs but by taking advantage of every break the Greencastle warriors managed to tie the score. The tropical weather slowed the game somewhat but fumbles and intercepted passes provided many thrills.

JEFFERSON, 12; LOGANSPOUT, 19

The Loganberries unleashed a powerful attack to roll up a score of 19-0 at the half but the Red and Black came right back to score two touchdowns in the second half. The Botkinsmen seemed to be completely outclassed until the second half when they made eight first downs to the Berries one.

JEFFERSON, 21; WEST SIDE, 7

In the final game of the season West Side threw a scare into the Jeff camp, holding them scoreless until the fourth quarter. A long pass in the second quarter from Douglas to Craig netted the West Siders their only touchdown. Jeff, led by Swick, got going in the last period to push over three counters.

JEFFERSON, 83; KENTLAND, 6

The Broncos took a strong liking to night football and easily downed Kentland. The Jeff backs tore the Kentland line into shreds and made touchdowns almost at will. Kentland scored their lone marker when the Jeff scrubs were sent in during the last half.

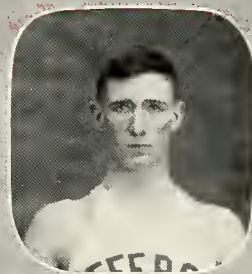

JEFFERSON, 27; ATTICA, 0

The Red and Black crew sank the Attica Gridders and thereby added another scalp to their collection. The game was all Jeff from whistle to gun and Attica never threatened.

On'y five lettermen returned this year but Coach Botkin turned out a team that will go down in history of Jeff as one of the greatest. Their enviable record of six victories, one tie, and one defeat has not been equalled since 1923.

Although only three lettermen will be back in the harness when the football call is given, Jeff should have another winning team. The reserves from this year and the able coaching of Mr. Botkin can produce nothing but a great combination.

Bunk was the spot shot of the team. He was always ready when the time came and he should be a great help next year.

JOE DIAMONDSTONE. Guard (Left Lower).

Joe is built for speed and he knows how to use it. His clever guarding and his splendid all around floor work will long be remembered.

TRIBUTES

CHARLES LAPLANTE. Center, Co-Captain—(Top).

Johnnie got his man at all times and the tougher they were the better he liked them. His accurate passing was responsible for many under the basket shots.

DWIGHT McCANH. Center—(Right Center).

"Si" whenever in a game always manages to get a basket or a foul. He was plenty fast and stuck his man. He will be a great help next year.

NORBERT KORTY. Guard—(Right Lower).

Korty was a clever player and was given an opportunity to show his prowess during the tournament. He should find a permanent position on next year's team.

HAROLD WALLACE. Forward—(Bottom).

Wally saved many games with his one handed shots. He handled the ball better than any other man on the team and his guarding was tight for such a small man.

THE '30-'31 BASKETBALL SEASON

Jeff opened the season against Wabash with only two regulars from last year's quintet, LaPlante and Coomey. The game was ragged but hard fought and went into an overtime period before Jeff won 25-24.

In the second game Manual was sent back with the short end of a 29-19 score. Jeff showed flashes of real ability during the game.

Before six thousand fans the Red and Black quintet bowed to a more experienced team from Delphi. Although Jeff fought hard they could not stop the Oracles' under-the-basket drives. The score was 29-12.

Morton of Richmond journeyed to Lafayette and returned a sadder but wiser team. A new combination completely swamped Morton 39-21.

After being beaten by Washington and the Hot Dogs, Athens came to Jeff expecting their first win in Indiana but they were doomed to disappointment. The Jeffersonians led them a merry chase to win 20-17.

The Botkinsmen started the New Year right by defeating the ancient rivals, West Side. Jeff took the lead and rode to an easy 33-19 victory.

In an exceedingly rough game Emerson of Gary took the Botkinsmen for a ride. The 27-21 score might have been reversed if the Jeffites had been able to connect with the draperies.

The Tiger Cubs eked out a 22-18 over the Jeffersonians in a hard fought tilt. Jeff's inability to swish the draperies at the right time was the big reason for defeat.

The Nautilus

In a return meet with the Oracles at Delphi Jeff was beaten in the last thirty seconds 17-16. Jeff held a 16-15 advantage and was stalling when a Delphi man stole the ball and slipped in the winning basket. After winning the Collegetown Tourney the Botkinsmen went to Crawfordsville to return with the short end of a 26-24 score.

The Connersville Spartans beat the Bronchos with charity tosses. The score was 30-28.

Jeff took the highly touted Tech team into camp 30-22. The Botkinsmen were behind at the half and then with some snappy shots they came out on top.

In the greatest defensive battle of the year Jeff defeated Huntington. The height of the Huntington quintet was balanced by the speed of Jeff and the game was not won until the gun cracked.

The Bronchos journeyed to Martinsville and gave the Artesian quintet something to remember them by. The game was an even break until the last quarter when Jeff broke loose to win 36-28.

Butch Nucman's Lebanon five tasted the bitterness of defeat at the hands of the Bronchos. The game was uninteresting and the Botkinsmen won easily 31-20.

The Loganberries took the Jeffersonians down a notch in a fast tilt. The game was even for the first three quarters but the Wellsmen opened up in the last quarter and snowed Jeff under 27-20.

Jeff triumphed over the circus city outfit in great style. A rally in the last quarter put the game on ice. The game was an even break until the last quarter when the issue was decided in favor of Jeff 29-24.

The Lebanon quintet turned the tables in a return game and shot their way to a 21-17 victory. The Nucman outfit got hot in the last quarter and sank enough baskets to win.

In the last game of the scheduled season West Side was again defeated 23-18. The Red and Black played a deliberate game and their defense was almost perfect.

RECORDS

Martin and Swick placed on the All-State Third team.

First win over Technical in three years.

First win over Martinsville in four years.

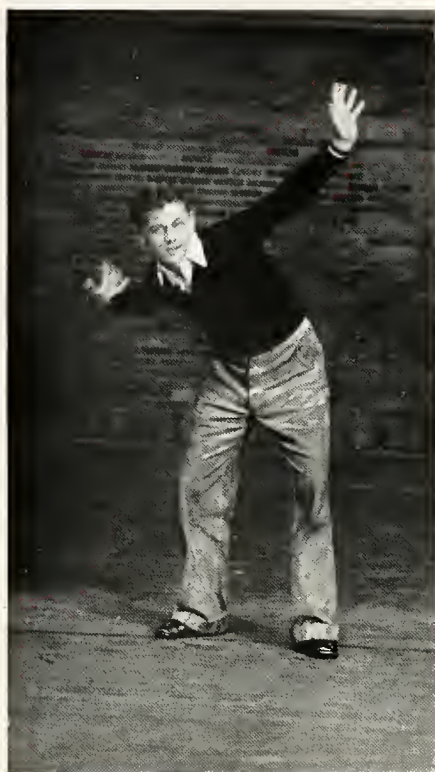

Third win of the Sectional in six years.

Defeated Athens, Texas, the 1929-30 National Champs.

COLLEGETOWN BLIND TOURNEY

Jeff added another trophy to its collection by winning this tourney for the second time. In the afternoon Jeff defeated the Bloomington quintet. After being behind at the half Jeff came back and won 19-18. Playing Greencastle in the final game history repeated itself and the game was another overtime battle. Jeff won a 14-11 victory in the overtime period.

SECTIONAL TOURNEY

In the first game of the tourney Jeff swamped Monitor. The first quarter the regulars piled up a lopsided score and when the substitutes were sent in they kept up the work to win 32-11. The Jeff-Dayton game was a "gang war." Jeff came out on top 23-12. The final game saw West Side go home on the short end of a 17-11 score.

TRACK

The 1930 track team, although not the greatest, showed a great spirit and stick-to-it-iveness which should develop a fine team in the future.

Swezey was the outstanding man of the team. He won first in the 100 yard dash almost every time.

Martin and Beeler put the shot. Greenwood and Goldsberry ran the mile. McQueen ran the 440 and the 100.

These are the outstanding men on the team but every man did his best and we should have a great team this year.

GOLF

The golf team won matches from many crack teams in this section. Some of the students hardly realize that such a team exists, but if more interest is shown this team will be one of the main things in Jeff.

The tennis teams started last year and got pretty well for the first year. More interest should be shown to produce a greater team on the courts.

BOYS' INTRAMURAL ATHLETICS

The continually increasing interest in intramural athletics, particularly basketball, has placed this activity at the head of the list in popularity. Sixty players signed up in the football league and 180 in the junior and senior basketball leagues. The winning team in the football league is decided by elimination contests while in basketball the percentage of games won is the basis. Football games were played after school hours at the close of the football season while the basketball games are played in the gymnasium during the noon hour throughout the basketball season. The basketball contests are particularly hard fought and some excellent material is discovered.

Awards are made to the winning teams in both sports and also the eight players in each league who are most outstanding in both ability and sportsmanship. Mr. Miller and Mr. Peck are in charge.

Girls' Intramural Athletics

Basketball began far back in history. It has progressed rapidly and gained in popularity until now it is considered one of the most profitable, successful, and highly patronized sports of the present day.

The winner of last year's color tournament was the yellow team with Vivian Miller as captain. This year twice as many girls came out for this sport and attended every practice. The requirements for these teams were—good report from heart examination and no girl should miss over two practices. The class tournaments extended over a period of three weeks, using Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday evenings for the practices. There was also a class tournament, the winner of the class and color tournaments played a game for the gym exhibition. Basketball is wholly a winter sport, extending over a period of three months.

The tumble-team, or the J Tumblers, is an organization of girls who banded with Miss Aldridge, physical education teacher, as the coach and instructor. This is the one activity which lasts the year around, and is also the most popular of intra-mural courses in Jeff. There is a maximum of twenty-five on this team with a waiting list always at hand. This group of girls meet every Monday evening. They have from time to time given programs at different festivals, being applauded loudly for their accomplishments. In the annual exhibition all of the classes give one or more performances with specialties by the different members of the tumble-team.

We have no scheduled spring sport. Tennis is offered in the classes, and is now being used as an extra-curricular sport. Baseball is practiced to some extent.

Volley-ball was taken up this year by quite a few girls with a successful tournament at the end of the three weeks of preliminary practice. There were six color teams in this tournament, with Marjorie Connell's team as the winner.

THE ANNUAL SCHOOL EXHIBIT 1930

Every spring the high school goes on parade before the people of Lafayette. At this time everyone is given an opportunity to see what work is being carried on in the school and how the departments have advanced from year to year. At this annual exhibit the various departments of the school prepare and arrange displays of the best workmanship which has been performed during the year. In the past two years, the exhibit was arranged in the new gymnasium; by this arrangement it has not been necessary to hold an entire open house. The various displays were in charge of teachers and pupils who explained the exhibit to the public.

The Nautilus

In the course of the evening a concert was given by the Jefferson Band. Another event of interest was a style show displaying afternoon and evening gowns made in the home economics departments. This exhibit has always been well attended by the parents of the pupils and those interested in the high school. Year by year the event has been more profitable and has shown to a great degree the progress of the school.

FOR centuries astronomers have looked into the skies searching for new worlds, constellations and stars. Aside from their interesting research work, they have learned much that is of practical scientific value.

Similarly, in the field of student publications, the Indianapolis Engraving Company searches constantly for new ideas, plans and methods that will assist year-book staffs to publish successfully books characteristic of their school and community. The results of these efforts are gratifying.

CONTENTMENT

It isn't the money that you have spent,
Will the things that you purchased make you content?
Nor is it the castle with beauty so rare,
But is there a homey feeling there?
'Tis true, your desires may be out of your means,
But be happy, things aren't as bad as they seem,
And all in all, the things that God sent,
Were meant just for us, that we'd be content.

"OWED TO A DENTIST"

Oh, it's nothin' very thrillin',
To see a dentist's chair,
And know you'll soon be fillin',
The empty space that's there.

No matter how he's a smilin',
Actin' so alert,
He may look beguilin',
It won't be him that's hurt.

And whatever you may fear,
It's right enough, I vow,
He'll take a tooth that's here,
Or put some in somehow.

Oh, it makes you giddy, too,
To see that dentist's chair
And know that part of you
Will soon be left near there.

Senior Prescriptions

Good evening everyone.

This is Dr. Drinkwater of the Drinkwater Sanitarium speaking. During my consultation hour this evening, I will answer all questions that have been forwarded to me through the mail, since my program last night.

Just before I stepped into the studio this evening, I was leafing through these letters, and found one that I want to answer first. It is from Miss Doris Jane Byler, and she wants to know how she can acquire blond hair. Well, Miss Byler, after a lengthy discussion with a professional blonde, Anna Mary Nicholas, I have found out that after all there is not so very much to blonde hair. If you will follow the directions I give you tonight you will have the much-longed-for lustre inside of a week. Into about three ounces of Listerine, put the peelings of a seedless, sunkist orange. To this add one teaspoonful of peach fuzz, and a pinch of flea's whiskers. After massaging the scalp with this mixture before retiring, be sure and place your bed in a position so that the moon will shine directly on your head while you are sleeping. Follow these directions closely, and let me know the results.

Here is another letter from a gentleman who is in a very distressing situation—yes, very distressing. Mr. Albert Highley, Jr., has written to me asking how he can secure a girl friend. If he had any sense, he wouldn't want any. However, this is a very delicate situation, and must be handled in a very secretive manner. Upon discussing your problem with Richard Moore, an experienced follower of the fair sex, I have decided that you must be very tactful. The main thing is to be dominating at all times. Never show any weakness to give in or they will all grind you under their heel in short order. Another important factor is to get someone in view who is not occupied at the present time, thus giving you a chance to exercise your powers upon her. The way to get them fast is to anoint your hair with F. W. Woolworth vaseline and wear a red necktie. Then they simply can not resist. After all this friendly advice you ought to have a harem inside of a day, as a last reminder, always carry plenty of chewing gum and mints.

The next letter is from Miss Doris Yost and she finds herself in a most perplexing situation, as to how she can make good grades in chemistry. This is a problem that has been menacing the universe for many centuries, and I am doubtful if it has ever been solved. The only advice that I can give in this matter is very limited, however, I would suggest that you try vamping Mr. Troutman. This can be done by bringing him an apple every other morning, and putting it on his desk before 8:20. The mornings that you do not bring an apple I would recommend that you give him a Dutch Master cigar. Last, but not least, flatter him as much as you can, and tell him how much you admire men who wear moustaches. If these pointers do not help, the situation is beyond my powers.

And now, ladies and gentlemen of my great unseen audience, my time has gradually stolen away, and it is my very painful duty to bid you all good-night until to-morrow evening.

(Enter Millicent Beck and Miss Stephens.)

Millicent—What was the answer to the fourth question in Health Ed?

Miss Stephens—Do you mean the one asking what you should do in case of coming into contact with a disease? There are several answers, such as, you should gargle your throat, secure plenty of fresh air, and have a shot or vaccination for the disease, whichever the case may be.

Millicent—Really, Miss Stephens, I think it is perfectly ridiculous to try to prevent a disease if you have a strong constitution. (In an excited tone.) If you are all there, you are bound to escape the disease.

(Miss Stephens makes an honest effort to suppress an uncontrollable laugh, and starts to uphold her point as the two exit.)

(Enter Hugh Titus, Joe Diamondstone and Grace Talbert.)

Grace—Oh, Joe, I was convulsed with laughter this morning when Mr. Rogers had to tell you how to spell sophomore. You turned as red as a beet. Imagine spelling sophomore, s-o-p-h-m-o-r-e! (She spells slowly and emphatically.)

Hugh—That was funny. Ha! Ha! (laughs heartily.)

Joe—You have no room to laugh, old man. Since when have the authorities spelt too much, t-o m-u-c-h?

Grace—Yes and Mr. Rogers gave him a D on his paper for that error, too, t-o (giggles.)

Hugh—(emphatically): Oh, I would not say too much. How long ago was it that our civilization adopted the practice of using rain drops to dot the i's and j's?

Grace—Well, I made an A. Didn't I? (She makes both these statements in a very breezy manner.)

(Exit Grace, Hugh and Joe.)

(Enter Betty Bellinger and Eddie Browne.)

Eddie—Now I am picturing you, Betty, falling out of that tree.

Betty—What tree?

Eddie—Oh, you know. You were telling us in Health Ed this morning. You fell out of a tree into a hammock, which broke and fell on the cat that was sleeping peacefully beneath it. I hear the cat screeching now, and I see you sprawling all over everything. (Laughs heartily.)

(Exit Betty and Eddie as Dick Moore and Anna Mary Nicholas enter from opposite directions and meet.)

Anna Mary—Well, Dick, where is Margaret? (Anna Mary says this in her most sarcastic tone.)

Dick (uninterestingly): Oh, I am sure I do not know.

Anna Mary—Do you mean to say that you do not know where Margaret is? (in a change of tone.) What did you make on that quiz in Composition? I have an 8 on my paper. I wonder what that means.

Dick—(sarcastically): You do not improve any, do you? There were five sentences and you missed one. Five divided by one hundred is equal to twenty. How much does one hundred minus twenty equal?

Anna Mary—I see, of course. How stupid of me. It equals sixty. That is not a very good grade is it?

The following verse was made to order for "Pete" Ullman:

Here lies the ashes of "Pete" the Great,
He didn't move until it was too late;
He got bumped by a car,
While looking at a star.
After this he will be more wise,
And it won't be caused by simoniz.

As we look at Harry Slack's tombstone, we will see the following:

Here lies the bones of Harry Slack,
The adventurer who said: "I'll never come back."

He tried to fly to the North Pole,
God bless his soul.

Some of the following nonsense might possibly be used for epitaphs, provided the deceased did not have a chance to read them before they died.

The following verse, I think, would fit "Bill" Shigley's tombstone perfectly:

This boy was big and burly,
And his hair was always curly;
He never had a date,
Therefore, he never experienced fate.
When he died
The whole world cried;
He was always fighting Piggly Wiggly
And his name was William Shigley.

You all knew Earl Hill, the ladies'

Here lies Earl Hill,

But he sure was heaven-bent;
All we heard was the ringing of a bell

Senior Will

We, the great seniors of Jefferson High School, hoping that we are in a sound mind, hereby formulate and file this will to the homogenous population of this time-worn center of education. It gives us poignant grief to leave this maelstrom of budding geniuses and withering idiots. Doesn't it, though?

First of all, we leave the hope that our posterity here, when their time comes to promulgate a will, that they will also be of a fair mental condition. (If they are, it will be due to the efforts of the obese faculty, thin ones too, in trying to take care of our dear lambs.)

To-wit: There are a few things, too numerous to mention them all, that we would like to see done before this will is executed:

1. Have our dear Joan washed each week, and made chaste of cosmetics.
2. All freshmen will have their hair cut in Sing-Sing style.
3. All teachers must weigh at least two hundred and fifty pounds so as to be in fit condition to cope with the exceedingly large freshmen.
4. There be a "brimstone and sulphur" day inaugurated, to offset this spring fever that threatens us every year with all its accompaniments of love, moonlit nights, and guitars.

WHEN DAD WAS A "MODERN YOUTH"

Bicycles, stereopticon lectures and the "gilded" youth with his horse and buggy; at night the midnight oil burning in student lamps while the gas lights glared and flickered across the town—the gay '90s when Dad was in school seem primitive to us today.

Now, it's sport roadsters, the talkies and radios. At night, the incandescent lamp replaces the midnight oil in study rooms, while modern street lighting sheds its friendly glow over the city.

Without electricity we would have none of these improvements. Today's marvel of electrical invention becomes tomorrow's accepted utility. In the coming years by taking advantage of new uses of electricity you will be able to go so much farther that the "tearing thirties" will seem just as primitive as the "gay nineties."

SENIOR EPITAPHS

In a grassy field I stood,
On the brink of a deserted wood.
My head was bent, my shoulders low,
My hair was silvered long ago.
I shivered with a proud disdain,
And plodded onward with my cane.
Withered, ancient, all sparkling zest
In nature's joy was scant at best.
In the air I seemed to hear a knell
Resounding like a funeral bell.
There were rows of scraggly stones,
Stuck upright like hollow bones.
On each one dimly read
The epitaphs of the dead.
I stooped. Yes, I had read aright
With my ever-falt'ring sight!
"Here are remains of Elizabeth Gray;
Her wavy hair is now hey hey!"
"Who would the next one be?"
Was the thought appalling me.
"In a sausage grinder this man blew,
But caught his nose and went on through,
In pieces to meet his doom.
He was known as Joe Bloom."

SENIOR EPITAPHS—(Continued)

A crooked tombstone caught my eye.
It was leaning, much awry.
"First in class and first to go,
She stabbed herself with violin bow;
When the beloved instrument broke down,
Thus came the end of Eddie Browne."
Still another came in view,
Entwined in forest flowers lilice.
While her fortune was on the make,
She swallowed a toothpick by mistake.
Doris Jane Byler, rest in peace!
Fear no more terror or disease.
And on one was engraved:
"All the dangers both be braved,
In molecules was he well versed;
No other being could come first,
But to atoms, e'en as hydrogen sulphide,
Was blown George Bostwick when he died."
Then "When her mouth opened wide,
A bumble bee flew inside;
Mary Jane O'Mara all her life had sung,
But in this place she was sadly stung."
Last, I read on a new white stone,
"He who died is classed alone;
He gained his ambition ere he went,
To death, by poison'd beer glass sent.

HEARD FROM THE SOLDIERS OF TIN PAN ALLEY

Our looks are not so hot,
We guess it's understood;
And we can't care a lot,
Because we're made of wood.

When the captain has inspection,
Every soldier looks his best;
Everyone is at attention,
Lookin' better than the rest.

Said the captain to the sergeant,
"What's the matter with your nose?"
And the sergeant answered,
"I'm the only one that knows."

Next in line a private,
A rather dusty looking man;
Once a sailor on the Frigate,
Wishes he was there again.

When the day is over
The bugler blows them taps;
And each one hurries to cover,
To get his beauty naps.

WE HAVE SERVED THIS COMMUNITY

Sixty years is a long time and yet only a short span in life. Those of you who step into life to take up the serious duties of citizenship, remember, that faithful service to those with whom you deal is one of the foundations of success.

Success in business is built on a solid foundation of service! For two generations we have maintained this.
